PUBLIC SPEAKING

By

CLARENCE STRATTON

Director of English, Cleveland High Schools

This new high-school textbook departs from the traditional. It is not an "elocution" book. Committing to memory and then reciting is not the basis of the pupil's work. Effective self-expression is the main objective in the course. The principles of composition receive attention as well as the art of declamation.

Here are the Chapter Headings:

- | | |
|--------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| I. Speech | VIII. Making the Outline or Brief |
| II. The Voice | IX. Explaining |
| III. Words and Sentences | X. Proving and Persuading |
| IV. Beginning the Speech | XI. Refuting |
| V. Concluding the Speech | XII. Debating |
| VI. Getting Material | XIII. Speaking upon Special Occasions |
| VII. Planning the Speech | XIV. Dramatics |

WHICH WAY ARE YOU HEADED?

The one room rural school cannot do the work of a well equipped High School. Neither can a man and a girl and a typewriter conduct a modern, efficient Educational Bureau for teachers. We have a trained office force using nearly two thousand square feet of the very best equipped office space to be found. This is why we can help you step upward. Last season we were officially requested to furnish seven thousand Western Reference Teachers for schools in forty-four States and three foreign countries. Our tenth year of recommending only when asked to do so. This is why the English Teachers we recommend are usually chosen. They are wanted. Free enrollment. Commission payable out of first and second months salary. Write today for STEPPING UPWARD. It is free.

Effective Expression

By CHARLES ELBERT RHODES

places special emphasis on oral composition

This new volume is more than a rhetoric; it is an interpretation of all forms of oral and written self-expression. It gives a new incentive to the pupil which makes him look upon the subject as a direct challenge to all his powers of brain and heart. It works!

DISCUSS IMMIGRATION WITH CONGRESS

Outline Study on Immigration and Americanization, by E. W. LOUGHRAN and M. R. MADDEN, takes for the question: Resolved: That legislation to restrict immigration into the United States is impractical, injurious to the industrial development of the country, and unnecessary.

The issues of debate:

- I. Is it possible to get a good practical restrictive test?
- II. If such a test can be found, would it be for the economic good of the country?
- III. Is the country unable to assimilate immigration arriving at the normal rate?

It is an unbiased study made for school work, with page references on each point of debate.

Price 40 cents. Stamps not accepted.

Story, Essay, and Verse

has proved a refreshing departure from the conventional selections found in the average collection of high-school and college readings, and it is now being used as a class text in the English departments of many high standard schools. A competent critic, who is also Head of the English Department in one of the large eastern high schools, says:

"When I read 'Story, Essay, and Verse,' I found it so interesting that I forgot all about its being a textbook. It combines delight and instruction in a remarkable way. There is so much inspiration and profit in it, added to interest of plot, style, and structure, that it should prove a delight to teach. In fact, it will teach itself."

Teachers who are preparing students for college-entrance examinations will find STORY, ESSAY, AND VERSE a valuable book to place in the hands of all such students.

The pursuit of happiness is the end of man—

so some of the world's greatest philosophers have said. "Give a man this taste (for reading) and the means of gratifying it, and you can scarcely fail of making him a happy man."—Sir John Herschel. To inculcate and cultivate this taste is the aim of all English courses.

The Standard English Classics Series is what the name implies—a selection of the best English classics, presented in an attractive and inviting form. They have the triple advantage of being carefully edited, mechanically excellent, and reasonable in price. This series contains, with a few exceptions, all the titles on the College Entrance Requirements list in English.
